

A Letter to my Child Care Provider

To the Special Person Who Teaches and Cares for My Child:

I learned that Friday, May 10, is Provider Appreciation Day. I'm amazed that I haven't taken the time to think about how much I appreciate you until I heard about this day. Because you have become such a part of our daily lives, I don't often stop to think about how much I depend on you every day. I know that without you, I would not be able to provide for my family. This letter is just a small note of appreciation for the many things you do for which I am so grateful.

For every time, my baby stretches out her arms to you in the morning, I thank you.
For every story my child excitedly tells me on the way home from child care, I thank you.
For every letter taught, number counted, song sung, and story read, I thank you.
For every "I love you" spoken through words and actions to my child, I thank you.
For every giggle, hug, smile, and cuddle you give so easily to my child, I thank you.
For every day I go to work and do what I need to do because I trust that my child is safe, cared for, and loved, I thank you.

You are my child care provider, and I appreciate you!

Sincerely,

A Working Parent
